2018 Los Angeles Historic Neighborhoods Conference:

Intersections Between Housing and Preservation

Saturday, October 13, 2018

8:30 A.M. - 4:00 P.M.

Join the Los Angeles Department of City Planning and the Los Angeles Conservancy for a day-long forum on preserving Los Angeles' historic neighborhoods. The theme of this year's conference is the relationship between housing and preservation: how we can address our housing crisis, creating more affordable housing and more housing supply, while still preserving the special character of our historic neighborhoods?

The conference will open with a special keynote panel on housing, preservation, and neighborhood change, moderated by Saul Gonzalez, KCRW reporter and host of the multi-part series There Goes the Neighborhood: Los Angeles.

The event is open to anyone interested in neighborhood conservation and will address a wide range of topics including historic districts, design review, neighborhood engagement, and community planning. It's a great opportunity to meet and network with community leaders from historic neighborhoods across the city.

Conference Sessions Include

- "Granny Flats" in Historic Districts: Achieving Housing and Preservation
- Preservation Architecture: Designing Infill Housing and Affordable Housing in Historic Neighborhoods
- Beyond SurveyLA: Using L.A.'s Historic Resource Inventory for Community Planning
- Multi-Family Housing: Balancing the Need for New and Old Housing
- Engaging Young People in Preserving Historic Places
- L.A.'s Legacy Businesses: Challenges and Opportunities

Interactive Power Sessions

- Preservation 101: Office Hours with the OHR
- Building Materials: Reuse and Repair Old Windows
- Aftermath of Senate Bill 827: What Should We Expect Next?
- Where Students Made History: 1968 East L.A. Chicano Student Walkouts
